

ABSTRACT

A golf ball has a spherical surface which is 5 integrally provided with a plurality of annular ridges. The annular ridges are effective for reducing the air resistance of the ball in flight and thus drastically improving the flight performance.